

EL 305
Shakespeare's Tragic Bodies: Sex, Sensation, Passion, Skin

Spring 2020
MWW 878
M 2171 | TB 490

Instructor: Dr. Ethan Guagliardo | ethan.guagliardo@boun.edu.tr

Course Goals: The theory of tragedy begins with Aristotle as a discourse of the emotions. By Shakespeare's time, however, tragedy hardly resembled its ancient form, and engaged with affective registers of embodiment far beyond pity and fear. This course introduces students to Shakespearean tragedy through the theme of embodiment, which we will consider through several theoretical lenses: sensation and affect; fictional and political bodies; the physicality of performance; the relationship between body and mind/subjectivity; and bodies racialized and sexualized. We will also be thinking throughout the course about how Shakespeare imagines the past in continuity with the present, and how we might draw from the resources of the past to imagine new theoretical possibilities.

Assignments

Research Paper: In three parts. Part 1: A short paragraph-length proposal, in which you choose (in consultation with me) one of the plays we read in the course. Part 2: A 2-page description of your topic/possible argument, and a list of at least six sources. One source must be a primary text, using the EEBO database. Part 3: first draft, 8-10 pages (excluding bibliography). Part 4: the finished product.

Midterm Exam: An exam testing your reading knowledge and attention in class.

Final Exam: An exam testing your reading knowledge and attention in class.

Assessment

Participation	15%
Research Paper Parts 1 and 2	5%
First Draft	15%
Final Research Paper	25%
Midterm Exam	20%
Final Exam	20%

Course Schedule

Week One, Feb. 10: "An Orgy of Horror for Horror's Sake"

Mon. ———Introduction to the Early Modern Stage
Weds. ———Titus Andronicus, act 1

Week Two, Feb. 17

Mon. ———Titus, Acts 2-3
Weds. ———Titus, Acts 4-5

Week Three, Feb. 24: Bodies Political, Magical, Fictional

- Mon. ——— Richard II, Act 1
——— From Ernst Kantorowicz, The King's Two Bodies
Weds. ——— Richard II, Acts 2-3

Week Four, March 2: Tears

- Mon. ——— Richard II, Acts 4-5
Weds. ——— Richard II

Week Five, March 9: Hamlet and his Mind/Body Problems

- Mon. ——— Hamlet, Act 1
——— Margreta de Grazia, "Hamlet Before its Time," Modern Language Quarterly 62 (2001): 355-375
Weds. ——— Hamlet, Acts 2-3

Week Six, March 16: Subjectivity and Feeling

- Mon. ——— Hamlet, Acts 4-5
Weds. ——— Hamlet

Week 7, March 23: Race in Space

- Mon. ——— Hamlet
Weds. ——— Antony and Cleopatra, Act 1
——— Ania Loomba, "The Imperial Romance of Antony and Cleopatra", from Shakespeare, Race and Colonialism (2000)

Midterm Exam

Week 8, March 30: Slippery Majesty

- Mon. ——— Antony and Cleo, Acts 2-3
Weds. ——— Antony and Cleo, Acts 4-5
Research Paper topic due

Note: Wednesday's class will have to be rescheduled.

Week 9, April 6: Liquefaction

- Mon. ——— Antony and Cleo
Weds. ——— King Lear, Act 1
2-page Abstract of Paper and List of Sources Due

Week 10, April 13: Anatomies

- Mon. ——— King Lear, Acts 2-3
Weds. ——— King Lear, Acts 4-5.
——— Gail Kern Paster, "Minded like the Weather: The Tragic Body and its Passions," in The Oxford Handbook of Shakespearean Tragedy (2016)

Spring Break, April 20-26

Week 11, April 27: The Body Porous

Mon. ——— King Lear

Weds. ——— King Lear

Week 12, May 4: Wounded Majesty

Mon. ——— Coriolanus

Weds. ——— Coriolanus; Coppelia Kahn, “Mother of Battles”

First Draft Due

Week 13, May 11

Mon. ——— Coriolanus

Wed. ——— Coriolanus

Response Paper 6 Due

Final Exam Tba